Italian road rules: driving license, principal violation, points, documents, foreigners...

Regulations of the Road...the principal rules...for those that knows little Italian language.

The security of a person on a busy street is one main purpose of social and economic order. The movement of the pedestrians, the vehicles and of the animals, on the street, is controlled by norms, for the respect of international law. In order to obligate people to respect the laws, they have to impose sanctions, administrative and penal and the deduction of points from the driver's license, for those who do not respect the rules.

The points of the driving license.

With regards to points, every driver's license has at its disposition 20.

The points reduces each time that the driver violates one of the rules of comportment, they can recover the points if from the last violation it passes two years without committing again and always that the person did not reach the quarter zero.

For those who have acquired the driving license after 1st October 2003, if they commit any infractions for the first three years, they will remove double of the points.

As one gets lost of its points, and to acquire the points back, at least 6, it requires attending courses for recovering the points through the driving school. If you want to know how many points you have, you can telephone at number 848782782.

 The cost of the fine is increased according to Article 195 (clause 2 bis) of the Highway Code because the violation/transgression was committed after 10p.m. and before 7 a.m.*

They have introduced a prize of good conduct for a driver that in two consecutive years has never lost points; in fact, it is possible to obtain up to 10 points.
